FREEDOM OF INFORMATION COMMISSION
OF THE STATE OF CONNECTICUT

In The Matter of a Complaint by

Report of Hearing Officer

Michelle Tuccitto Sullo and the New Haven Register,

Complainants

against

Docket #FIC 2011-555

Public Works Department, City of Derby,

Respondent

March 21, 2012

The above-captioned matter was heard as a contested case on February 7, 2012 at which time the complainants and the respondent appeared, stipulated to certain facts and presented testimony, exhibits and argument on the complaint.

After consideration of the entire record, the following facts are found and conclusions of law are reached:

1. The respondent is a public agency within the meaning of §1-200(1), G.S.
2. It is found that by letter dated August 30, 2011, the complainants made a request to the respondent for a copy of, or access to, records regarding the suspension of, or any disciplinary action taken against, city employees for providing free paint striping at a private business.
3. It is found that on October 6, 2011, the respondent denied the complainants' request stating that the two employees, Kelly Dunne and Shaun Wheeler, were informed of the request and had objected to the disclosure of any records related to their suspension on the grounds that disclosure would constitute an invasion of their personal privacy.
4. By letter dated October 6, 2011, the complainants appealed to this Commission alleging that the respondent violated the Freedom of Information ("FOI") Act by deny their records request.
5. Section 1-200(5), G.S., provides:

"Public records or files " means any recorded data or information relating to the conduct of the public's business prepared, owned, used, received or retained by a public agency, or to which a public agency is entitled to receive a copy by law or contract under section 1-218, whether such data or information be handwritten, typed, tape-recorded, printed, photostated, photographed or recorded by any other method.

6. Section 1-210(a), G.S., provides in relevant part that:

Except as otherwise provided by any federal law or state statute, all records maintained or kept on file by any public agency, whether or not such records are required by any law or by any rule or regulation, shall be public records and every person shall have the right to (1) inspect such records promptly during regular office or business hours, (2) copy such records in accordance with subsection (g) of section 1-212, or (3) receive a copy of such records in accordance with section 1-212.

7. Section 1-212(a), G.S., provides in relevant part that "[a]ny person applying in writing shall receive, promptly upon request, a plain, facsimile, electronic or certified copy of any public record."

8. It is found that the requested records are public records within the meaning of §§1-200(5), 1-210(a), and 1-212(a), G.S.

9. At the hearing on this matter, the respondent contended that the requested records are exempt from mandatory disclosure pursuant to §1-210(b)(2), G.S., and claimed that disclosure of the records would be embarrassing and offensive to the employees if the requested records were disclosed.

10. Mr. Wheeler, who was the only employee to testify at the hearing on this matter, contended that as a resident of Derby, with friends and family in the town and in neighboring towns, disclosure of the requested records would be embarrassing and that it would be highly offensive to a reasonable person to have the records disclosed. He also contended that the records regarding his suspension were not a matter of public concern. He also testified, and it is found, that he had not reviewed the records responsive to the complainants' request.

11. Section 1-210(b)(2), G.S., provides in relevant part that nothing in the FOI Act shall require the disclosure of "personnel or medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute an invasion of personal privacy. . . ."

12. Section 1-214(b), G.S., provides:

Whenever a public agency receives a request to inspect or copy records contained in any of its employees' personnel or medical files and similar files and the agency reasonably believes that the disclosure of such records would legally constitute an invasion of privacy, the agency shall immediately notify in writing (1) each employee concerned, provided such notice shall not be required to be in writing where impractical due to the large number of employees concerned and (2) the collective bargaining representative, if any, of each employee concerned. Nothing herein shall require an agency to withhold from disclosure the contents of personnel or medical files and similar files when it does not reasonably believe that such disclosure would legally constitute an invasion of personal privacy. [Emphasis added]

13. It is found that the requested records constitute "personnel" or "similar" files within the meaning of §1-210(b)(2), G.S.

14. The Supreme Court set forth the test for the §1-210(b)(2), G.S., exemption in Perkins v. Freedom of Information Commission, 228 Conn. 158, 175 (1993), which test has been the standard for disclosure of records pursuant to that exemption since 1993. The Commission takes administrative notice of the multitude of court rulings, and Commission final decisions (see Endnote 1), as well as instances of advice given by Commission staff members (see Endnote 2), which have relied upon the Perkins test since its release in 1993.

15. Specifically, under the Perkins test, the claimant must first establish that the files in question are personnel, medical or similar files. Second, the claimant must show that disclosure of the records would constitute an invasion of personal privacy. In determining whether disclosure would constitute an invasion of personal privacy, the claimant must establish both of two elements: first, that the information sought does not pertain to legitimate matters of public concern, and second, that disclosure of such information is highly offensive to a reasonable person.

16. Further, it is found that records relating to the employees of public agencies are presumptively legitimate matters of public concern. Perkins, above, at 174. "[W]hen a person accepts public employment, he or she becomes a servant of and accountable to the public. As a result, that person's reasonable expectation of privacy is diminished" Id. at 177. "The public has a right to know not only who their employees are, but also when their public employees are and are not performing their duties." Id.

17. While it is the respondent's burden to prove the applicability of an exemption,¹ it is found that the respondent offered no evidence to prove the applicability of §1-210(b)(2), G.S., to the requested records but rather only provided conclusory language, and generalized allegations. It is found, therefore, that the respondent failed to prove that it reasonably believed that disclosure of the requested records would legally constitute an invasion of personal privacy before notifying Mr. Dunne and Mr. Wheeler of the complainants' request as required under §1-214(b), G.S.

18. It is also found that while Mr. Wheeler claimed he would personally find it embarrassing to have the requested records publically disclosed and that to be subject to such embarrassment would be offensive to him, disclosure of a public employees' disciplinary records that describe misconduct and the actions taken against the employee for such misconduct does not meet the objective standard of disclosure that would be "highly offensive to a reasonable person" under Perkins, Id.

19. Furthermore, it is found that, because the public has a right to know when there is a misuse of public equipment and supplies by a public employee, and the manner in which such misconduct was addressed, the requested records are a matter of legitimate public concern under Perkins, id.

20. It is concluded, therefore, that disclosure of the requested records would not constitute an invasion of personal privacy under Perkins, id.

21. It is therefore concluded that the respondent violated §1-210(a), G.S., by failing to disclose the requested records.

The following order by the Commission is hereby recommended on the basis of the record concerning the above-captioned complaint:

1. Forthwith, the respondent shall provide the complainants with a copy of the requested records, free of charge.

2. Henceforth, the respondent shall comply with the disclosure requirements of §§1-210 and 1-212, G.S.

2. ENDNOTES

AFFIDAVIT OF ERIC V. TURNER

Eric V. Turner, having been duly sworn, does hereby depose as follows:

1. I am over the age of eighteen (18) years and understand the obligation of an affirmation.
2. I am a member of the Connecticut Bar and am currently employed as Director of Public Education for the Connecticut Freedom of Information Commission, having first been employed by said commission in 1996.
3. I am providing this affidavit in light of the Supreme Court decision in Director, Retirement & Benefits Services Division v. Freedom of Information Commission, 256 Conn. 764 (2001), in which the court apparently invites a reconsideration of Perkins v. Freedom of Information Commission, 228 Conn. 158 (1993). See, Director, supra at 782, fn 13, 785 (Zarella, J. concurring).
4. As part of my responsibilities as Director of Public Education for said commission, I have developed, organized and scheduled speaking engagements, seminars and programs explaining the duties and rights established under the Connecticut Freedom of Information Act.
5. Since I assumed my current position in 1996, there have been approximately 290 such speaking engagements, seminars and programs in Connecticut and I have personally lectured in approximately 80 such speaking engagements, seminars and programs.
6. As part of the presentation I have prepared for such speaking engagements, seminars and programs, the subject of the Connecticut General Statutes Section 1-210(b)(2) exemption for personnel, medical and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute an invasion of personal privacy is stressed because of the great interest in that exemption and the confusion generated by a series of inconsistent and contradictory court decisions prior to Perkins, supra. See, e.g., Chairman v. Freedom of Information Commission, 217 Conn. 193 (1991) (establishing “reasonable expectation of privacy” test; query whether subjectively or objectively applied) and Board of Education v. Freedom of Information Commission, 210 Conn. 590 (1989) (confirming a “balancing” test), which was overruled by the Chairman case.
7. Since the Supreme Court ruling in Perkins, supra, all Freedom of Information Commission staff members who conduct such speaking engagements, seminars and programs discuss in detail the rulings in that case and its progeny.

8. As part of my responsibilities as Director of Public Education, I also answer telephone and other inquiries from public officials and the public. Since my employment with said commission, I have answered thousands of such inquiries, including hundreds of inquiries concerning the Connecticut General Statutes Section 1-210(b)(2) exemption. In responding to such inquiries I discuss in detail the Perkins case and its progeny.

9. Based on the foregoing experiences, it is my opinion that the Perkins decision, and its progeny, have had a beneficial effect on public officials and the public itself because they can rely on a now long-standing and clear test with respect to the Connecticut General Statutes Section 1-210(b)(2) exemption, which helps them determine whether that exemption is applicable to the practical problems they encounter with respect to personnel, medical and similar information. Indeed, the many court and Freedom of Information Commission decisions applying the Perkins test have given public officials and the public a now consistent body of law concerning that statutory exemption.
