Description: This four-day supervisor development program will focus on the key aspects of first-line supervision. Most programs focus on motivational techniques, types of leadership styles and other textbook related supervisory training. Our four-day course is specifically designed to move beyond theory and provide practical application of critical skills and abilities necessary for your supervisors to protect themselves, their officers and the agency from the liability of ineffective leadership.

This course is taught by Connecticut POST certified instructors of the J. Harris Academy of Police Training. POST credits will be provided for this training. For any questions or more information contact (732-684-1644).
