III. DEPARTMENT ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Department of Transportation has jurisdiction over any person operating any motor vehicle in the transportation of household goods for hire as a household goods carrier pursuant to Section 13b-389 of the Connecticut General Statutes. Further, no person shall operate as a household goods carrier, within Connecticut, without first obtaining a certificate of public convenience and necessity to so operate.

In determining whether such a certificate shall be granted, the Commissioner of Transportation shall take into consideration the existing motor transportation facilities and the effect upon them of granting such a certificate, the suitability of the applicant, the financial responsibility of the applicant, the ability of the applicant efficiently to perform the service for which the authority is requested, the criminal history of the applicant, the condition of and effect upon the highways involved and the safety of the public using such highways, pursuant to Section 13b-392 of the Connecticut General Statutes.

As far as the applicant's financial ability is concerned, the applicant presented evidence that the applicant's first six months of start-up costs includes insurance costs of $10,486, vehicle financing of $17,100, maintenance and repairs of $3000, property tax of $1,668, advertising costs of $12,000, rent costs of $7,500 and communication costs of $1,800 for a total expense of $53,554. The applicant has $54,135 in a business bank account which is sufficient to cover these costs making the applicant financially suitable.

The applicant submitted a criminal record check for Ms. Harrington and Mr. Claffey showing that no criminal record was found. Both members have just started in the junk removal business and want to expand into performing household moves. Based on the evidence presented, the applicant is suitable to handle this proposed operation.

Another factor to be considered is the ability of the applicant to efficiently perform the service for which the authority is requested and the condition of and effect upon the highways involved and the safety of the public using such highways. The applicant plans to operate one truck to perform the moving part of the service, which will have little effect on the public or highways.

The last criterion to be taken into account is the effect on the existing motor carrier facilities by granting the certificate. Armstrong Moving and Storage opposed to this application on the grounds that the applicant's presence in the market would dilute its business. There was however no proof offered to support the allegation that the applicant's business would have a negative effect on its business. All of the applicant's business is received from a franchise connection referral in Florida and the applicant will operate over a wide territory in the state. The fact that both businesses are operating from the same headquarters town is not enough to reject the application.

Based upon the evidence presented, the applicant has proven all the necessary elements to be granted a certificate to operate a household good moving company.
